> “Our strength is that we are able to evaluate and treat both mother and baby in one visit.”

Sarah Riddle, M D,
Center for Breastfeeding Medicine, International Board Certified Lactation Consultant and Fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics

Sheela Geraghty, MD, MS, IBCLC, works with a family in the Breastfeeding Medicine Clinic.

Breastfeeding Medicine Clinic

At the Cincinnati Children's Center for Breastfeeding Medicine, we are committed to helping mothers have a successful breastfeeding experience. Our outpatient Breastfeeding Medicine Clinic provides services for mothers who are having difficulty nursing. We are part of the Division of General and Community Pediatrics, which incorporates clinical care, teaching and research. We also provide lactation consultation for mothers when their infant is hospitalized.

Our Team

Our clinic is staffed by both pediatricians and nurses. Our team members are all International Board Certified Lactation Consultants and have extensive experience with a wide range of maternal and pediatric health conditions.

Clinic Services

Our clinic services address many problems that may be encountered during breastfeeding, including evaluation and management of:

- Problems with latch
- Sore nipples and breast pain
- Slow weight gain in the infant
- Low milk supply
- Tongue-tie
- Nipple and breast infections, including mastitis and yeast infection
- Breastfeeding multiples
- Complex breastfeeding challenges

Clinic Visits

The clinic is designed to meet the needs of both mother and infant at a single visit. At the visit, mom and baby will be registered as patients and assessed. We evaluate both mother and baby and bill insurance for each assessment.

Most appointments last 90 minutes, giving us time to observe a breastfeeding session and assess the baby's weight before and after feeding. We schedule longer visits for certain situations, such as mothers with twins or triplets. We will work with the mother to design a detailed, individualized feeding plan.

Sarah Riddle, MD, Sheela Geraghty, MD, MS, and Ellen Springer, MD, lead the Center for Breastfeeding Medicine. All of our physicians are International Board Certified Lactation Consultants.
