PARTNERSHIP MAKES THE DIFFERENCE
As a nonprofit hospital and research center, Cincinnati Children’s relies on friends like you to provide hope and healing to the children and families entrusted to our care.

Your partnership provides seed money to develop new programs and services. Your support improves the quality, safety and reliability of pediatric healthcare. Your investment provides funding for innovative research to prevent disease, advance treatments and change the outcome for children in Cincinnati, across the nation and around the world.

We are profoundly grateful to those who have chosen to partner with Cincinnati Children’s to advance discovery and help bridge what happens in our research labs into improved treatments and care. Together, we are improving child health.

As a nonprofit hospital and research center, we are grateful for all gifts made to Cincinnati Children’s. Unless otherwise noted, this report lists all donors who gave $500 or more in fiscal year 2012 (July 1, 2011 through June 30, 2012). We have made every effort to be accurate and complete with this listing. Should you find an error or omission, please call the Department of Development at 513-636-6347.
Cornerstone Contributors

These generous supporters have made gifts to Cincinnati Children’s totaling $1 million or more. Because of their partnership, Cincinnati Children’s continues to be a leader among pediatric hospitals. Our research pioneers are changing the way doctors all over the world care for children. Our clinicians are able to provide state-of-the-art, family-centered care, and countless lives have been saved.

DENNIS AND ANN FLAHERTY

Hemophagocytic lymphohistiocytosis (HLH)—two words that changed Dennis and Ann Flaherty’s life forever. Their son William was diagnosed with this life-threatening immunodeficiency disorder when he was only 3 years old. After a long battle that included a bone marrow transplant, William is now a happy and healthy 8-year-old, but Dennis and Ann haven't forgotten how daunting the journey to the cure can be.

Determined to find a way to bring more awareness about the newly recognized disorder to the medical community, to improve care for those diagnosed and to help families facing HLH, the Flahertys have provided seed funding for the HLH Center of Excellence at Cincinnati Children’s. The center is focused on four pillars—research, education, clinical care and family support. “This center will significantly change the outcome for families facing this disease through earlier detection, treatments and family-focused support,” Dennis says. “This journey can be extremely dark at times, and the HLH Center of Excellence at Cincinnati Children’s will be a beacon of hope.”
Individuals and Family Foundations

Cincinnati Children’s is able to change the outcome for families because of our long-standing partnership with donors. We thank the many patients, families, staff and friends who have made charitable gifts to support our work. Each and every donor makes a difference in the lives of the families we serve.

Joe and Susan Pichler have known many families whose children have received exceptional care at Cincinnati Children’s, often for conditions that require sophisticated analysis and treatment. These experiences led them to talk with Arnold Strauss, MD, chair of the Department of Pediatrics, who told them of the critical need to expand treatment programs for children and teens suffering from mental illness, an area of medicine that is often underserved and underfunded. The Pichlers responded with a significant gift in support of the Partial Hospitalization Program, which provides inpatient therapeutic care for children and adolescents in a daily, nine-hour program that allows them to go home to their families each night.

David and Nancy Wolf have a theory about the secret of our success, and they want to share that with children around the globe. “A special passion exists at Cincinnati Children’s,” David says. “Nancy and I have seen it in every doctor, nurse and staff member. We want doctors and researchers from across the world to experience that passion and carry it on to their patients.” Through a generous gift, the Wolfs have funded an opportunity for doctors from Israel to do just that. The David and Nancy Wolf Israel Exchange Training Program provides top medical students from Israel with the opportunity to spend time at Cincinnati Children’s learning from our world-class physicians and researchers, impacting an exponential number of doctors and patients from across the world.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

“Our family chose to help Cincinnati Children’s because it was a smart investment. They had the infrastructure in place needed to make a meaningful impact on the disease. We knew our investment would yield results.”  KAREN PHILIP, THE BUCKEYE FOUNDATION

53
The William Cooper Procter Society recognizes and honors friends of Cincinnati Children's who inform us that they have included the medical center in their will, estate plan or other deferred gift arrangement. Named in memory of Colonel Procter, whose visionary gift established our research endowment, this society acknowledges these generous individuals who have chosen to leave a legacy to improve children’s lives for generations to come.

“Anything you can do to get involved with Cincinnati Children’s is a privilege,” says Tom Cody, chairman of the Cincinnati Children’s Board of Trustees. In addition to his institutional leadership, Tom and his wife Mary Ellen are passionate philanthropists who are leading by example through their generous support of the Heart Institute. The institutes at Cincinnati Children’s are grounded on three mainstays—clinical care, research and education. The Codys’ gift will impact all three. In addition to supporting continuing education for the institute’s pediatric cardiac specialists, it will also expand the Ventricular Assist Device (VAD) Program. VADs are mechanical pumps used to keep patients alive while they wait for heart transplants, and they are also being studied as a treatment to repair cardiac muscle damage, reducing the number of patients needing heart transplants.

When corporations and communities come together, miracles can happen. Cincinnati-area Walmart and Sam’s Club customers and employees rallied during the Children’s Miracle Network Hospitals’ Miracle Balloon Campaign benefiting Cincinnati Children’s. This year’s campaign was one of the most successful ever, more than doubling last year’s contribution.

“The children treated at Cincinnati Children’s hold a special place in the hearts of the Walmart and Sam’s Club family,” says regional manager David Gose. “Our customers and associates are parents, aunts and uncles, brothers and sisters and of course, grandparents. When we see children who need medical care, we want to make a difference. The Miracle Balloon Campaign provided an opportunity for our customers and associates to give whatever they could afford to children who need the level of care that Cincinnati Children’s provides, and they gave without hesitation.”

“When we see children who need medical care, we think of their families and we want to work with Cincinnati Children’s to make a difference.”

DAVID GOSE, WALMART/SAM’S CLUB
We are grateful to the individuals, families, corporations and foundations that had the vision to establish permanent endowment accounts to benefit the children and families we serve. Their investment in the future of the medical center provides ongoing support for salaries, equipment and laboratory costs that are necessary to create new knowledge to advance and improve child health.

Auxiliaries

United by a common interest in supporting the medical center, Cincinnati Children’s auxiliaries have been essential to our success. If you would like more information about our auxiliaries, or if you wish to join in their important work, please call 513-636-6080.

Kindervelt
City President: Buffie Rixey
Gift: $575,550

Our largest fundraising auxiliary, Kindervelt is widely recognized as one of Greater Cincinnati’s outstanding volunteer organizations. With nearly 1,000 members in groups around the region, linked by a citywide board of trustees, Kindervelt truly lives its mission to “have fun while raising funds” for the patients and families of Cincinnati Children’s. In its more than 40-year history, the women of Kindervelt have contributed over $15 million to the medical center.

The Cooperative Society
President: Nancy Sorg
Gift: $761,600

Our first auxiliary, the Cooperative Society has served Cincinnati Children’s for more than 125 years. In addition to financial contributions, members of the Cooperative Society also give generously of their time. Members volunteer for the Division of Child Life and Recreational Therapy, the Mayerson Center for Safe and Healthy Children and the sewing room.

Junior Co-Operative Society
President: Marjorie Gilsdorf
Gift: $482,832

Established in 1910, the Junior Co-Operative Society operates and staffs the Gift Shops at Cincinnati Children’s Burnet and Liberty campuses. The Gift Shops are filled with a wonderful selection of toys, games, cards and books to lift the spirits of hospitalized children. All proceeds from the Gift Shops are donated to the medical center. Their dedicated volunteers live by their motto, “the more you shop, the more we give.”

Association of Volunteers
President: Jeane Elliott
Gift: $60,300

The Association of Volunteers has supported the Convalescent Hospital for Children, an affiliate of Cincinnati Children’s, for more than 40 years. To raise funds for the Convalescent Hospital, the association sponsors the Cincinnati Art & Antiques Festival. This four-day antique show, held each October, is one of the largest and finest in the country.

Funny Companie Clowns
President: Donald Bachmann
Gift: $13,160

Since 1983, the Funny Companie Clowns have been delighting children and adults throughout the community, while raising money for Cincinnati Children’s. The 25-member volunteer auxiliary performs at holiday parties, company picnics, birthday parties and festivals, and has raised nearly $200,000 for the medical center.
Special Events and Community Organizations

Special events bring people together to benefit our young patients, while building awareness of the medical center and children’s health issues. Cincinnati Children’s thanks each and every volunteer and supporter who gave time, talent and resources for an event that benefited the medical center. Those events that raised $500 or more are listed here.

AN EVENING HONORING MILT KANTOR

Milt Kantor is a businessman, a husband, a father, a grandfather and a friend to many. As an avid philanthropist for most of his life, Milt has called upon many of his friends in the world of sports to share their time and resources for causes that are close to his heart.

For his 85th birthday, Milt’s family gathered some of those sports legends, and 500 other friends, to celebrate his life and his generosity during an event that benefited the Cancer and Blood Diseases Institute at Cincinnati Children’s. Guests included Bobby Knight, Cris Collinsworth, “Big O” Oscar Robertson, Dolph Schayes, Bob Huggins and others who were thrilled to honor Milt while supporting the health and healing that Cincinnati Children’s provides for kids around the world.
